

One of our greatest freedoms lies in our wildly disparate media outlets. To tailor public policy to the bottom line of a few media conglomerates is an outrage. But that is exactly what will happen if media conglomerates are permitted to buy up all the media outlets. Their views will crowd all others out of the discourse. How will democracy survive in this country if that happens?